How Rithum Helps Health & Beauty Retailers Grow Product Offerings and Attract New Customers

eMarketer forecasts the health and beauty e-commerce to account for 12.3% of total retail and e-commerce sales this year, and for it to undergo the fastest digital transformation of any e-commerce category through 2028. Do you have the infrastructure in place to effectively keep pace with this anticipated growth? Rithum helps retailers manage every stage of the consumer journey, maximise efficiency, unlock new growth opportunities, and ultimately offer a superior customer experience.

How Rithum helps health & beauty retailers

Rithum helps drive scale and profitability through the world's largest unowned inventory network so you can:

Grow product assortment. No other e-commerce platform provides the flexibility to support various third-party (3P) inventory models. With Rithum, you can adapt quickly (without adding new tech) as business requirements change. With our Advanced Catalogue capabilities, we can model any taxonomy to help brands build products faster, expedite time to site and shorten time to revenue.

Attract new customers. Rithum offers the most extensive network of sellers in the hottest categories. Expand your reach with our merchant discovery process to identify high-value products and reliable suppliers, opportunities to fill category whitespace, and capitalise on emerging trends with no inventory investment.

Exceed customer expectations. With the largest e-commerce network in the industry, Rithum helps you grow your assortment with quality brands customers trust. Delight them further with the tools to ensure on-time delivery and swift returns if needed. Since apparel has one of the highest returns rates of any category, it's critical to create an efficient process between trading partners while ensuring a seamless customer experience.

Improve margins and operational efficiency. We enable our retail partners to engage with their vendors through dropship and private marketplace. This also allows the merchant team to source a broader assortment and place product in the model (marketplace or dropship) that produces the greatest margin and profitability.

Rithum is your trusted partner and platform

Rithum provides everything you need for a thriving retail presence. From access to high-quality brands that are trusted and can meet profitable margin contributions to helping you dial in your supply chain capabilities and maximise bottom line profits, we have the industry expertise to help you unlock your selling potential.
